Eric Carle's classic story now comes to a touch-and-feel edition that's perfect for both sight-impaired and sighted children. This large, tactile format, complete with Braille letters alongside the printed text, is meant to be read with the hands as much as with the eyes. The well-known pictures have been constructed out of various textured materials—cloth, felt, textured papers—that create a picture that can be recognized by the fingers. This unique, hand-made, oversized edition is a one-of-a-kind creation that will appeal to parents and collectors of all ages.
