Narita Inspected, the seal of approval slapped on scanned luggage at Tokyo's Narita airport, places an x-ray focus on the capital's graphic design community.

In addition to showcasing a comprehensive selection of amazing young hopefuls, their sometimes schizophrenic work samples are supplemented and contrasted with those extremes of Japanese society the locals tend to take for granted. As most of the contributors work from their economical, claustrophobic homes, often between their bed, television and Playstation, glimpses of everyday madness and product overkill sneak into the designs which gain a generous touch of personality from these idiosyncratic living situations. Clean, purist traditionalism clashes with playful and trashy pictograms, unveiling a remarkable rich spectrum of vector and internet graphics, collages, games and cartoons.

Compiled and edited by Lopetz from Swiss design collective Büro Destruct an avid lover of Japanese culture and computer games, Narita Inspected reflects the entire exotic variety of the scene's genius in comprehensive work samples, self-portraits, interviews, biographies, pictures of work environments and everyday visual culture. With a variety of paper types, special packaging and 5-6 colour print throughout, this rich, multi-faceted aesthetic texture is reflected in the book's physical appearance and manages to successfully convey the decisive difference to traditional European design.
