When a big box arrives one morning, Bridget Fidget leaps out of bed and spins down the stairs. She knows what's inside a unicorn. After all, she's always "wanted" a pet unicorn, so it must be a pet unicorn. But inside the box is just another . . . smaller . . . box. And it's buzzing. This is no unicorn. But could it possibly be something even better? For all kids whoave ever wanted what they couldnat have (because itas a mythical creature or just beyond the family budget), hereas Bridget Fidgetathe girl in a whirl who finally sees that even better things can come in unexpectedly small packages. Like Eloise and Olivia before her, Bridgetas got moxie to spare.
