Young Phil Richart is lured into looting an Anasazi ruin by an illegal antiquities collector. When they arrive at the canyon Phil gets a surprise. I suddenly sensed that something was rushing towards me from behind. When I spun around there was nothing but air between me and the Anasazi ruins. George pushed past me. "I told you this canyon was a little bit spooky," he said with a nervous chuckle. My fear was turning to anger at George for bringing me here. "That was more than spooky," I said. "What is it?" He paused. "It must be a ch'iindi, a ghost." George intended to leave, but here I was. I needed the money. Could I stick it out?
