A Doorway to Hearts is a saga of a brotherly bond between an Ogalala Warrior, Blazing Star, and a white United States cavalryman, Trent Walker. The story sweeps us back to their first meeting on the Missouri riverbank to the battles of Rosebud and Little Bighorn, along with their loves and numerous trials and tribulations in the endeavor to attain a peace between their races. Many obstacles are hurled their way in their quest for that dream, and Blazing Star and Trent struggle to maintain their strong bond despite betrayal and heartache. With hatred and extreme prejudice a constant battle for them, the two comrades are driven apart and their dream of unity is seemingly lost. Will their bond survive such tragedies and ordeals as both are torn between their love for one another and loyalty to their peoples? They find that opening a doorway to hearts is nearly an impossibility and their dream more difficult to obtain than anticipated. Where following their hearts will lead who knows, but it most assuredly won't be an easy path to follow
