This book is Dark. Very Dark. In fact, this book is so dark that I wrote "it" in the Dark. And when it wasn't Dark enough, I continued to create by writing with my eyes closed. But remember, even closed eyes can see light. Meaning, the more I explored the Darkness (with my eyes closed), the more I was able to see. As if what is discovered in the Dark cannot be ignored. As if Darkness is nothing more than something standing in the Light. As if Light is a Mask that is worn by the Darkness. Actually, this book is built around the concept of The Spoken Word verses The Written. For you see, I spoke as I wrote while my eyes remained closed. As a result, I began to see that only two types of words exist - those that are spoken and those that are written. An example of The Spoken Word can be found at the very beginning (Genesis 1: 3) when God said, "Let there be light (and there was light)." The "power" of The Written Word can be seen (even with closed eyes) in any written document that is legally binding. More precisely, what do you call something that is legally binding whose "power" resides in The Written Word? (An illusion, perhaps?) But anyway, the more I explored the mysteries of The Spoken Word (remember: When it comes to this book - I spoke as I wrote), the more I began to see the picture behind the picture; namely, if only two types of words exist (The Spoken and The Written), then perhaps there is a bigger classification (for books) than merely fiction or non-fiction. In fact, I began to see that fiction and non-fiction are perfect example illustrating the truth of this statement (or observation): "A fool and water are easily diverted." 1]Do not be diverted by Fiction or Non-Fiction - it's bigger than that As big as the differences between The Blackman's Guide or The Whiteman's Handbook. Enjoy.
