Meet three men who would not accept defeat. Eddie Rickenbacker, Jimmy Hall, and Antoine de Saint-Exupery may not have considered themselves remarkable, but each one worked to develop his God-given gifts to make a difference. Rickenbacker is best known as America's legendary Ace of Aces of the famed 94th Aero Squadron. Hall is most remembered as the co-author of the classic work Mutiny on the Bounty. Saint-Exupery is celebrated world-wide for his book The Little Prince. However, few individuals today understand how these three lives intertwined and how they were among the first to plough the skies.
