Have you ever gone out in the country or perhaps your own yard on a warm spring or summer evening and watched the sun set? Have you ever looked at a small and seemingly insignificant blade of grass and wondered about its creation and reasons for existence? Have you ever slowed-down or paused long enough to observe and assimilate the fragrant beauty of a rose in bloom, the trees, the rolling hills, a placid lake, the monumental splendor of the mountains, the gigantic seas with endless and unceasing multi-storied walls that crash upon the smooth and countless grains of sand, only to retreat and come at you again? Have you every laid upon a bed of grass and gazed at the majestic beauty of Gods clear blue and infinite domain? Have you observed the arabesque construction, the peaceful muted beauty and serenity of clouds as they drift by? I tell you this, it is absolutely beautiful and inspiring and awesome. It is beautiful beyond words and awesome beyond the limits of mortal comprehension. It is an experience that dwarfs and transcends all that is finite and mortal and links you with the two intangibles, the infinite and the immortal, it brings you close, ever so close, to your creator It makes kings of mere men and giants of Lilliputians. It gives dignity and peace to man. It provides the answer to man's quest for his existence. It is a physical, mental and spiritual experience that transcends earthly vice and pleasures and bestows temporary immortality. It makes you realize how small you are. It makes you humble Don't fool yourself Don't lie to yourself. Don't tell yourself that soon you'll find the time for this. Perhaps tomorrow, next weekend, or next month. Don't put it off. Do itnow For tomorrow is promised to no one It is all out there waiting for you to experience, enjoy and absorb via osmosis. It is all absolutely free God has provided all of this majestic and breathtaking splendor at no charge.
