Vital insights and wisdom on the perennial question of why we need love This book explores how some of the greatest minds of civilization have tackled a question that continues to play a vital part in our lives today. In Why We Need Love , Simon Van Booy curates an enlightening collection of excerpts, passages, and paintings, presenting works by Geoffrey Chaucer, William Shakespeare, John Donne, William Blake, George Eliot, Emily Dickinson, O. Henry, W. B. Yeats, James Joyce, E. E. Cummings, Anaïs Nin, Marc Chagall, J. Krishnamurti, and others. Why We Need Love will engage both the serious philosopher and the eternally curious.

评论

Too much of literature than simple facts. "No matter what we do, love saturates our lives in every possible way. Even when we try to escape, it finds us-if merely to tease us with what we could have had."

For happiness, for fulfilling, for running away from void of loneliness, for a handsome face; for erotic sex, for a brand new me; for self-identification, for jealousy, for all the ugly shit utterly ridiculous for all; for the freedom of owning an ugly chair; for we are apes, for this then that. Love is about everything.
