When we say that a child is intelligent, we usually only focus on his or her academic performance. Nevertheless, children are social, emotional, physical, thinking and learning beings. When we nurture children, we must look at all the parts and the whole beings that they are. This series, based on the theory of Multiple Intelligences, aims to help caregivers develop children in the different intelligences - academically, creatively, physically, emotionally and socially. All Kids R Gifted! is a series of delightful books featuring different themes and experiences that young children can easily identify with. The stories and activities are focused on developing each child's unique combination of multiple intelligences (Intelligences), skills and capacities for self-expression (Gifts). The focus in this book is to: Explore the Reasoning Ability of the child within
