"Chosen by the Lion" is Linda Gregg's fourth collection, and her most eloquent, bespeaking a deeply personal reconciliation with the loss of love. Gregg is able to take common experience, to see it clearly, in all its mundane and ordinary complexity. But in her poetry, that experience is also explored in its affinity to the gods, to the ways of nature. The result is an experience that is firmly grounded in the ordinary, yet transformed spiritually. Linda Gregg's other books of poetry include: "Things and Flesh," "The Sacraments of Desire," "Alma," and "Too Bright to See."
