A twenty-year high school reunion in a small town in central Vermont has dramatic experience for Gina Lynndy and her best friends. Four of the girlfriends get together for a time of enjoyment and memories. There was not only the enjoyment of seeing each other, there were big secrets, secrets that changed their lives and had an effect on several of the friends. Why did Gina's father, twenty years ago, suddenly leave town in the middle of the night and what were the secrets that three of Gina's friends had for many years? They met at a time when the small town was going through turmoil, and the reunion turns into funerals. The new lawyer in town has a surprise drastic history with one of the friends and now his life is at risk. A time for reminiscing about happy times and laughter not tears.
