Women are using the Internet more than ever--and more than men--to shop, to chat, and to manage their finances. As founder and CEO of the pioneering Women's Financial Network (WFN), Jennifer Openshaw has made it her mission to provide women with all of the advice and access they need to achieve financial security. Much more than a catalog of sites, What's Your Net Worth? is chock-full of tools to help women seize the opportunities that are available on the Internet, from IPO's to investment clubs, business financing, mortgages, retirement planning, and much more. It is packed with female-friendly advice to guide women toward financial prosperity.
