A kaleidoscopic world of creepy-crawlies awaits! Discover the insect kingdom in all of its magnificent color in A Kaleidopops Book: Bugs . From the enormous shimmering wings of a blue morpho butterfly to the iridescent rainbow shield bug, junior entomologists will learn all about bugs: what they eat, where they live, and how color helps bugs hide from predators, attract mates, and find food. Five spectacular spreads feature 3-D lenticular pop-ups that fly off the pages and shimmer in the light, showcasing incredible insects and bejeweled bugs in their natural habitats. Every spread boasts beautiful full-color illustrations and fascinating facts about the world's most populous species. This is definitely a book with lots of buzz!
