This book is designed to read exactly as it was told in a series of afternoon discussions--two amazing stories of real-life American dreams, and the running commentary and wisdom of a man who not only witnessed those stories, but also was as an advisor to these entrepreneurs and their dreams. This book is a conversation between--a seasoned eighty-year-old retired CEO and a forty-something writer who suddenly realized, that he's never been anything but an entrepreneur. This book presents not only the wisest and surest path to success and true-life riches, but also the one true answer to this god-awful economic mess in which this country finds itself.
