Throughout her career as a medieval historian, Eileen Power was engaged on a book on women in the Middle Ages. She did not live to write the book but some of the material she collected found its way into her popular lectures on medieval women. These lectures are now brought together, edited by M. M. Postan, and reveal the world in which women lived, were educated, worked, and worshipped. Power gives a vivid account of the worlds of the lady, the peasant, the townswoman, and the nun. The result is a historical yet intimate picture of a period gone by yet with resonances for today. For this edition, Maxine Berg is also included, offering an intimate portrait of the writer and social historian.

有些观点还是有趣的嘛，男人，总也离不开女人，特别是聪明的女人。可有智慧的女人，受屈于男人之下又不得不听从他们的话时大概满脸弹幕吧。

such fun! 很精简，主要讲中世纪后期英国的情况
