Elaine Pease is the children's author of picture books "I'll Never Leave" and "Even Sharks Need Friends," and soon-to-be released middle grade history mystery "Ghost

Over Boulder Creek." She's been interviewed on Denver's 9News and Northern California Channel 50 news station about her sweet and silly stories about bravery and lost and found friendship. She wrote both picture books, certain that her author grandmother was looking over her shoulder, and even illustrated "Even Sharks Need Friends" using a dynamic multi media collage design for her sparkling undersea world. She runs a writer's critique group of talented, published and will-be-published children's authors and is a member of SCBWI and CIPA.
