She can't fight her way out of a paper bag-but she might just talk him out of his heart. Dr. Jane Farmer, a marriage and family therapist and the host of a public radio station talk show, likes her life calm, controlled, and on schedule. But after she accepts a package for her mysterious neighbor, Lex D'Angelo, her well-ordered life goes out the window. Now she's on the run from gun-toting goons and putting herself in situations her lady-like upbringing never prepared her for. Former FBI agent Lex D'Angelo can't believe he's stuck on a mission with his uptight neighbor. How is he going to solve a case that killed one of his former lovers when he has to rely on a psychologist? What's she going to do-talk the gun out of the bad guy's hands? But as the situation gets more dangerous, Jane shows strength he never expected. Now Lex isn't so sure that she isn't the right woman for the job-and his heart.
