David Davies has served the past 26 years as a police officer, 14 of those years as a dog handler. During this time he has accumulated many stories, some funny, some not so funny David often asked to recount these tales to folk whom always seem interested. They must be as they ask for more Due to these requests he began to write down some of the stories. It has been suggested that he arrange them together in the form of a short book for others to enjoy.
