Kids love music and rhymes; literacy often begins that way. Singing nursery and other rhymes, and pairing the songs with books is a proven way to begin reading instruction and it is fun! Primary teachers and their librarians love to play rhyming and singing games often accompanied by hand and body motions. Out of requests from teachers and librarians attending his workshops, the author presents this readers theatre book for young readers, aged 6-8, built on the songs and rhymes that they already love and know. Scripts are built around such rhymes and songs as: Down by the Station; The Eensy, Weensy Spider; The Farmer in the Dell; Have You Ever; Ever, Ever; Hush, Little Baby; If You're Happy and You Know It; and I'm a Little Teapot. The songs encourage children to read the scripts, all the while building reading fluency. The book furnishes presentation suggestions, rationale for using readers theatre, and readability information. It also features ideas for movement and dance.
