Raised by her holier-than-thou mother, Locksie left the church behind to make a life with her live-in boyfriend. But lately, something just hasn't felt right... Hannah, one of Locksie's clients at the salon she manages, tries to offer advice, but she's got her own issues, trying to forgive her cheating husband and raise his child. Now each woman must find the strength to face the truth about her relationship, and about herself.
