Suzanah inherited her grandmother's house on her 40th birthday. One day, while she was out in the garden, she saw the most amazing thing: an exquisitely tiny horse with butterfly wings caught in a spider's web. What follows is the very diary she kept over the course of a year while she explored her magically transformed garden and watched, sketched and wrote about the amazing fairy foals within it. Not only is this a remarkable sketchbook, it is a story of adventure, friendship and the truly magical things that are hidden in plain view. Complete with vivid full color paintings, as well as sketches, notes, poems and a running storyline about a foal named Little Brown, this is a unique and brilliant picture book you will never forget. One day Suzanah was out exploring her garden looking for something inspiring to take back to the studio to draw. What she found was more than unexpected, it was extraordinary...
