In English, the duck says, Quack, quack! But in French, the duck says, Kwang, kwang! Children love voicing sound words, and Ellen Slusky Weinstein's lively book introduces the sounds of a dog, a frog, a duck, and a rooster as pronounced in English, Spanish, French, and Japanese. With humorous illustrations by Kenneth Andersson, here is an entertaining way to introduce young children to foreign language and onomatopoeia. A chart at the back of the book shows how the words are spelled in their respective languages.
