Every girl in middle school has been through at least one of these. Like telling your crush you like him...only to find out he doesn't like you back. Or accidentally blabbing your best friend's secret to the entire school. And then there are those situations that aren't so much embarrassing as just, well...sticky. How do you handle it when you and your friends all try out for cheerleading, but you're the only one to make it? Or when your parents don't approve of your cool new best friend? And what about those potentially dangerous sticky situations? You're approached online by a stranger... or you overhear a kid at school threatening to do something violent. Middle school should come with an instruction manual. Well, now there's help. The Fab Girls Guide to Sticky Situations will not only tell her how to get unstuck in all these situations, it'll show her how to do it with style. From now on, she'll be the best-prepared girl around.
