In Going Swimming, Mum, her daughter, and the baby take a trip to the local pool. Young readers follow along as they negotiate the changing rooms, splash about in the water, and coax the reluctant baby to join them. When it's time to go home, guess who's having too much fun to leave? Going to a public swimming pool for the first time can be a little bit scary, but this reassuring story, told from a child's point of view, shows that it can be lots of fun, too.
