A secret war between ancient, rival sorcerers is underway on earth. A Young Magician who must find his true potential may tip the balance of power. But whose side will he be on? "The Aethnici Incident" moves towards its conclusion as a showdown looms with Ark, the nearly invincible Magician King. Carno and Ibuki join a group of other powerful sorcerers who go to the place where Ark is supposedly imprisoned. After a search of the dungeons comes up empty, it isn't long before the band of magicians finds themselves under attack. Was Ark really setting up Ibuki to be his successor, or was that promise all part of some elaborate hoax?
