Natalie and Naughtily Nopps live in a house on top of a big department store. Natalie loves visiting every floor from top to bottom Naughtily? From bottom to top One day the girls receive a note from their parents asking them NOT to play in the store that day "Today we shall go to the store to "help" " they agree. Evening gowns are on two, perfume and hats on three, coats on four . . . and on "every" floor there are customers galore. But will the girls "really" be any help? Vincent X. Kirsch has created a splendid world for Natalie and Naughtily, in which every vividly detailed floor in the store has its own magnificent hue. Readers will be enchanted by these two impish sisters, their very good intentions, and most of all by the hijinks and adventures they effortlessly conjure up in one very busy day
