Tune into "The Snow Show" to see Chef Kelvin and his trusty sous-chefs, Snow White and Jack Frost, investigate evaporation, condensation, and precipitation--all while cooking up the lightest, fluffiest batch of snow "ever" to fall from the sky. The critics agree: This is one snowy science-filled cooking extravaganza that'll make kids wish every day were a snow day " "Includes an author's note with additional information about snow, suggested reading, and a link to the author's website, which features an exciting animation of snow-crystal formation and a free activity kit.
