From the beginning of the world-when God created Audrey Hepburn, the guilt complex, and worker ants-to the end, broadcast live on a TV chat show, "A History of the World for Rebels and Somnambulists" whips through our tortuous past with the deftness of a surgeon's scalpel. Jonah confronts a ship of Norwegian whalers, Little Red Riding Hood gets drunk with the wolf, and Bob Dylan loses his shadow. It is a history unlike any other: at once sinister, alarming, and breathlessly funny. Jesus del Campo was born in GijA3n, Spain. He is a translator, traveler, and doctor of philosophy. His other books include a novel about Snow White.
