This is a superb collection of essays focusing on contemporary architecture, from one of its leading British figures. Throughout his career, Adam Caruso - a leading figure in contemporary British architecture, and one half of celebrated London-based architectural firm Caruso St John - has continued to develop his writing and research, focusing his thoughts on the architectural practice and prominent figures of the Modern Movement. "The Feeling of Things" brings together a number of Caruso's writings (1997-2008) through which he reveals a new way to see and experience the radical approach to contemporary architecture of the Modern Movement.

好随意，估计只适合休息时候翻翻，有些内容比如the feeling of things一节，感觉上脱离语境又缺图片，有些难以共鸣

可能是因为刚读完Olgiati，读这本真是有些食之无味，而且没有图片的话真不知道在说个啥。读完的感觉就是他随便写写我随便看看，竟然还这么多人预约…在不得已还书的情况下读完还得大老远去趟学校还书让人感觉借得真不值。

Very loose but imagined...
