Three extraordinary women share friendship, heal old wounds, and discover love while defending their own.

Mac, a therapist, Abby, a nurse, and Cleo, an attorney, bring their skills and dedication to Fireside, a domestic violence shelter in rural Virginia. The shelter, far more than just a "place," offers its residents a safe haven in which to heal and a community of women who will stand for them until they can stand for themselves. Mac and Abby, devoted to those they serve, discover equal passion for each other while fighting to protect all they love.

Fireside is a story of friendship, healing, and finding love.
