After several years of being a single mom, advertising executive Grace is determined to find that special someone to marry and be a good father to her 13 year old son. This time, however, she is going to try something she has never tried before...remaining celibate while she dates. This vow of celibacy becomes even more of a challenge when she meets Wallace Peters, her son's English teacher. Grace faces this and other challenges and obstacles with a little trial and error and a lot of faith.
