Chad loves playing football and loves having fun. Fans wonder each week what new touchdown celebration Chad will perform. He certainly has had plenty of chances to celebrate touchdowns. Since being drafted by the Cincinnati Bengals in 2001, Chad has been one of the top receivers in the NFL. Chad was raised by his grandmother in Miami, Florida. Because he didn't put much effort into his schoolwork, Chad nearly lost his chance to play football in college. Chad, however, found a way to make it to Oregon State University, where his football talents shone. In the NFL, Chad learned to improve his performance even more. When his hard work comes together with a long touchdown, he loves to dance or unveil a special jacket or pass out presents or just surprise the fans. With Chad, it's something new every week.
