He was just a boy with a dream from a small, rural Massachusetts town. He loved wrestling and rap music, and studied and idolized the biggest stars in both fields. Little did he know that one day he would get a chance to combine both his passions. Today John Cena is one of the biggest stars the WWE ever had. He also writes and records freestyle rap music, appears on TV commercials, stars in movies, and always has time to help children, lift the spirits of American military troops at home and abroad, and work for worthy causes all over the country. He taunts his opponents, loves his fans, never forgets his roots, and has an exemplary work ethic that reflects the values of hardworking people everywhere.
