Robbie and his friends have come up with a contest. It's kind of like a read-a-thon . . . or a telathon . . . except, it's a snogathon . In other words, a kissing contest. And it's top secret. None of the girls in school know--which is especially tricky, since they're all in it. What's also tricky are the rules and points and charts involved. Robbie wants to win by snogging Mel, the class ice maiden, who is high up on the points scale. But Mel has other ideas. This is going to be a weirder and wilder challenge than anyone expected!
