Award-winning travel writer Julian Smith shares his knowledge of the Four Corners region, a destination that he admits is his “favorite place on earth.” From the alien rock formations of Arches National Park to the lightning-swept mesas of Canyonlands, the Four Corners region provides a landscape that defies the imagination, and Smith provides expert advice on all of the amazing sights, historical landmarks, and outdoor activities. He also includes unique trip strategies, such as a National Parks and Scenery Tour and Native Cultures Tour. Whether it's mountain biking on the famous Slickrock Trail near Moab, pretending you're in a John Ford western while driving through Monument Valley, or standing on the only point in the U.S. where four states meet, Moon Four Corners gives travelers the tools they need to create a more personal and memorable experience.
