"Film Review" annual is the definitive journal of record of the movie business for the English-speaking world. Covering every single film to receive a theatrical release in the UK--and many which have not, "Film Review" has over the years reviewed more than 16,000 films and covered more than 60 years of incredible achievement and evolution in the movie business. The 2008-2009 edition is as definitive as ever, but the new editorial team continue to make key changes to the structure and format of this year's annual--new for 2008 are more hard-hitting articles by filmmakers and critics covering vital topics in cinema today and broader international coverage of world cinema and film festival screenings. As always, "Film Review" is a premium resource for reviews, cast lists, and credits for all the year's new releases; reviews of the top ten box office stars, plus new faces of the year; details of major awards and film festivals; and In Memoriam--the year's obituaries.
