There are no books published on this subject yet. Only review articles and review book chapters have been written so far. Perhaps the most comprehensive ones were published in 2004 in the Reviews in Geochemistry and Cosmochemistry series under the title "Geochemistry of non-traditional isotopes." Brian Beard and Clark Johnson wrote two chapters devoted to Fe isotopes. However, because the target was the specialist audience and this field expands so rapidly, this book is already partly outdated.
