The editors of this volume are committed to the philosophy of treating emotionally disturbed children in the life milieu. Both have been intensely involved in training "online" therapists-child care workers. They are convinced that there is no one "right way" in milieu treatment, and propose a eclectic model for treatment. Like many of the other writers included in this book, Whittaker and Trieschman conceive of treatment as a total life experience. They do not see the individual versus the group, but the individual within the group situation. They also do not see permissiveness versus limitations, professional staff versus nonprofessional staff, or the institution versus an outside of the community. The book is divided into two sections: the first is a dialogue between the editors on current issues in residential treatment and problems in treating children. The second is a collection of readings. This is one of the first sourcebooks covering the therapeutic milieu for children in residential treatment centers, specifically emotionally disturbed children. It is also an excellent text for courses on the emotionally disturbed child, milieu treatment, and child welfare.
