Fantasy readers of a certain age will recall the untrammelled delight that attended their initial discovery of this field. Years later, if you're still reading fantasy but enjoying it less, you might rediscover that vanished sense of wonder through the fiction of Alexander Jablovkov. In these nouvelles and short stories, Jablovkov reprises all the pyrotechnical zaniness of the Golden Age, albeit tintured with the elegance and intelligence that one expects from modern science fiction. With illustrations by J.K. Potter, this first collection by the author of Carve the Sky confirms Jablovkov as one of the finest contemporary fantasists: "The Breath of Suspension," "Living Will," "Many

Mansions, " "The Death Artist, " "At the Cross-Time Jaunters' Ball, " "Above Ancient Seas, " "Deathbinder, " "The Ring of Memory, " "Beneath the Shadow of Her Smile, " and "A Deeper Sea."
