Learning to recognize shapes in the world around us can be fun, especially when you have bright, colorful photographs and easy-to-read rhyming text to help teach the basic concepts. This series of books is designed to be enjoyed by young students reading alone or reading along with a teacher or parent. Hands-on activities provide opportunities for students to apply and demonstrate what they've learned. This series explores and supports the standards "Language Arts," "Science," and "Mathematics," as recommended by Content Knowledge: A Compendium of Standards and Benchmarks for K-12 Education.
