Just a quick glance at the table of contents will tell you that this isn't your standard inspirational book. Consider these chapter titles: "It's a Dog-Eat-Dog World and Cats Are Waiting Tables," "I Need a Rocky Mountain High Because I've Reached a Barry Manilow," and "If the Incredible Edible Roadkill Bill Passes, Will There Really Be a Fork in the Road?" Martin Babb moves beyond such extraordinary titles to address the ordinary issues we all face on a daily basis -- surviving trials, loving others, parenting, developing a servant's heart, and a variety of other down-to-earth topics. With each life-affirming lesson, he plants whimsical seeds intended to nurture serious reflection. "When Did Caesar Become a Salad and Jeremiah a Bullfrog" will give you a reason to smile and something to chew on with its unconventional collection of bite-sized essays.
