Against all odds, one brave girl dons a warriors mantle to defend her homeland. In a medieval German town called Naudars, albino children hold a revered and protected status. But when Naudars is attacked by its enemies, all able-bodied men rise to defend their home. Dorothea is one of the albino children, and she has always wanted to see the world beyond her cloistered existence. Now shes prepared to defy the odds and tradition and enlist in the military. Like Joan of Arc, Dorothea must deal with the prejudices of those who are scandalized by the very existence of a young woman warrior. This spirited, sword-wielding girl is going to have to defend herself from charges of witchcraft at the same time shes defending the land she loves. This volume also features a special color section!
