Ciarra aCeCea Greene grew up amidst all the hustle and bustle, a hoodrats, a and a hustler a life in the ghetto has to offer. She saw it out of her bedroom window and passed it on the way to the corner store, but was never close enough to touch it. After years of battling her sister, Kayzie, from the thug who stole her heart, Ciarra's parents kept her locked away from the world. She longed for a taste of the life that seduced her sister once upon a time, but she never quite found a way. All her life, CeCe tiptoed the invisible line between her world and the wild world that circled all around her, never slipping over. That is until Marquis Alcea Demone hit the scene, stealing her heart, shattering her carefully constructed castle, and pulling the princess over the line. Love in the hood ain't no easier than life is there and between a baby mamas, a haterz, a and a the game, a CeCe was in for the fight of her life. The love was definitely real, but the price would be high. Would CeCe be willing to pay the cost for a Young Thug's Heart?
