Shortlisted for the Angus Book Award 2005, voted by UK teenagers. Great for enticing reluctant teen readers ? especially boys. Four hours after running away from home, fifteen-year-old Danny thinks his luck couldn?t possibly get any worse. He is stranded at a motorway service station and his bag containing everything he owns has been stolen. He is approached by Luke, a smart eighteen-year-old with money, a four-wheel drive and a video camera to make a video diary. Together they embark on a journey through England ? a sabotaged fox hunt, an encounter with travellers and an illegal rave. Danny's luck has changed completely ? for the worse. Wherever they go, a mysterious trail of death follows them. Will Danny learn the truth about Luke before it is too late? ?Really good stuff? ? Tim, 15 years old, www.cool-reads.com Praise for Colin Moody's narration: ?Narrator Colin Moody is excellent in his pacing and intensity? ? School Library Journal (The Secret of the Alchemist) ?Moody's reading is excellent? ? Kliatt (The Secret of the Alchemist)
