The long-awaited sequel to The Gentile and the Jew is here. From an exotic honeymoon in Israel on the shores of the Red Sea, Mike and Carrie Kramer return to the States ready to settle down in Chapel Hill, NC, where Mike plans to complete his master's in journalism at the University of North Carolina. Upon arrival in New York, Daniel Silverman, Mike's former boss whisks the newlyweds away to Manhattan for a twenty-four hour layover they will never forget. Events transpire that could dramatically upset the couple's well-planned future. No longer content to be players in the background, the beloved characters of The Gentile and the Jew emerge front and center in Going Home. From Rachel and Isaac Kramer in Wilmington, NC, to the Safron family, Rachel's newly discovered relatives in Israel, and from Romanian Rabbi Abraham Wasserman to New York's Becca Brody and Daniel Silverman, their lives rise dramatically to the surface of this fascinating tapestry woven together by a strong underlying thread. Theirs is truly a divine journey home.
