But even more extraordinary is the fact that all four children have the ability to teleflash--they can talk to each other without saying a word It's a power that comes in handy whenever these adventurous kids are on the trail of a villian. Before the Starbuck family embarks on a trip to New Mexico, a whisper comes through the wind to Liberty. It leads her and her twin, July, to an ancient hillside dwelling that was the site of a tragedy. In their quest to rectify the wrongs of the past, the twins encounter a group of thieves who will stop at "nothing" to steal the artifacts in the ancient home.
