People see and go through many trials in their lives growing up in urban communities. Some experiences change them for the better or for the worse. At the end of the day those experiences make them who they are. Urban Poetry Stories tells those stories. Some stories are told for people who live in poverty. Other stories are told for people who live through pain. Many people live many days dealing with stress. Many people struggle because of little motivation. Poor peopleas dreams and stories need to be told also. Even though you go through tough times you still have to stay strong. Take a journey through the authoras eyes and ears. Find the continuing poem parts to complete the poem. Enjoy poetry that motivates, inspires, tells the truth, and acknowledges the truth. Read behind the poetry as the author tells you what caused him to write the poem or what he was thinking
