The central question of every hard-working person's career is how to work less hard while still being able to buy a bottle of ninety-five-dollar Borolo without trembling. This is as true at age thirty as it is at more advanced ages. But by age forty, most of us are already thinking of exit strategies that will place us firmly off the grid for good. The question, then, is simple: How to retire while continuing to enjoy all the best things that haute-bourgeois life has to offer? The answer has been under our noses all along: Retire while still working This might seem like a difficult proposition, but close examination of the concept reveals that there are many among us who have been exploring this boundary between a nice nap and the long sleep for quite some time. They are called "Senior Management," and we have a lot to learn from them.

书评

翻翻这本书，老子笑翻了，老外也很搞嘛，技术啊，告诉你如何忽悠老板和下属，给人“认真”工作的假象，其实你在想方设法吃喝玩乐。
比如，电话会议，其实你在高级酒店的浴缸里，旁边有美女相伴，当然，这时候你需要做的就是少说，但是必须要让人知道你参加了会议，尽管你在遥远...

-----
总是抱怨工作时间长工资还少，总是寻找工作与生活的平衡杠杆，总是犹豫要不要换个清闲的工作，也总是像蚂蚁一样不停地与重负较劲儿
而这一切，都是因为，还没找到轻松高效工作的招数
作为读者，我能通过这本书，找到最适合自己的工作模式与生活规律
作为编辑，我的努力能让我的...
