In Nature School, Mick Manning and Brita Granström show young readers how easy it is to become a nature explorer. The book takes them on an exciting adventure to discover the secrets of nature, learn how to find and preserve wildlife, and make them feel closer to the world around them. Step-by-step instructions and whimsical art accompany such projects as building a birdhouse, farming crops, creating a mini greenhouse, and even talking to owls and dancing with worms! A timely section on the dangers of littering and pollution encourages conservation. The authors bring their trademark mix of learning and fun to this new entry in the popular series that includes Art School, Science School, and Drama School.
